Joint meeting with the Society for International Development

THE ROLE OF STATISTICS IN DEVELOPMENT AROUND THE WORLD

The United Nations Statistical Commission is now meeting in New York. Several representatives from various countries have agreed to speak to the WSS about statistics and development in their countries or regions. The names available to us at press time are Peter J. Bjerve, Director of the Bureau of Statistics, Norway, and Louisa E. Quesada, Director of Statistics and Census, Panama. Several additional speakers will be here.

WHEN: Tuesday, May 11, 8:00 p.m.
WHERE: Red Cross Auditorium, 2025 E Street, N. W.

This will be the Society's annual meeting. There will be a short business period, including financial report, announcement of new officers, and a few other organizational matters.

STATISTICS IN OPERATIONS RESEARCH

"Gaming and Simulation", Richard E. Zimmerman, Research Analysis Corp.

"A police conflict model", Macon Fry, Consultant.

Mr. Zimmerman is an expert in war gaming. Mr. Fry will speak on a model on fighting crimes which is related to the well-known prey-predator model in ecology.

WHEN: Tuesday, May 18, 8:00 p.m.
WHERE: Room 212 McMahon Hall, Catholic University
4th Street and Michigan Avenue, N. E.

LAST MINUTE FLASH ON MAY 11 MEETING: Mr. Bjerve is also chairman, U.N. Statistical Commission. Additional strong possibility although not absolutely definite: Bahgat El-Tawil, U.N. Regional Statistician for Africa
T.V. Viswanathan, Regional Statistician for Economic Commission for Africa and the Far East.
