LUNCHEON MEETING

"The Job Market in Transition"

Arthur M. Ross, Commissioner of Labor Statistics

Five years of economic expansion have brought the unemployment rate to the lowest level in ten years. Dr. Ross, who comes to the Bureau from the University of California, where he was Professor of Economics and one-time Director of the Institute of Industrial Relations, will discuss the implications of this emerging development. This will be an opportunity for many of us to encounter for the first time our new Commissioner of Labor Statistics.

WHEN AND WHERE: Tuesday, January 11, 12 noon, Cameo Room, Presidential Arms, 1320 G Street, N.W. $2.50 (luncheon, tax, and tip). Please send check with form below to John Gracza, to be received by or before January 10.

"Sampling and Multiple Decision Procedures"

Robert Bechhofer, Cornell University

Multiple decision procedures are used to help an experimenter decide which categories under test are "best" with controls over the probability of error. Several practical examples will be given. Dr. Bechhofer is an authority on statistical decision theory and on ranking methods.
